

Updated July 23, 2009

Question #1

Which topic will be the most appropriate for the CSTAR this year?

Response:

There are no designated topics or science areas that are considered to be most appropriate or important for the CSTAR competition. All science priority entries listed in the announcement are valid proposal foci, and each proposal submitted will be given equal consideration.

---

Question #2

Are the science priorities listed in the announcement shown in priority order?

Response:

No. You should not assume the science priorities listed in the announcement are listed in order or importance.